Elizabeth 'Lizzie' Beatty ROBERTSON	Yalgoo	Peter had not long been on the field and it was thought he came from N.S.W. His wife Lizzie put a memorial notice in a Sydney paper in 1897: HAMILTON.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Peter Hamilton, who died at Yalgoo, Western Australia, 11th April, 1896. Inserted by his loving wife, Lizzie.	1A	RC	RC
	Yalgoo	newspaper report: News was received in Perth yesterday of the death from typhoid of Mr. Sydney Abrahamson, telegraph operator at Yalgoo. His illness was reported only a few days ago, and Mr. F. T. Crowder, M.L.C., who was a friend of the deceased, procured for him the services of two trained nurses. They, however, did not reach Yalgoo until too late to be of any material service, and the sufferer expired early yesterday morning. Mr. Abrahamson was second son of Captain Abrahamson, pilot master of Rottnest, and was a popular official.	1	29 RC	RC

	Yalgoo	Yalgoo' by Alex Palmer page 12 April saw the arrival of the first Asians to Yalgoo. Three males and two females came from the coast via train and Gascard's coach. One of the men, Ah Sue was employed as a cook at the Yalgoo Hotel where he stayed with his two Japanese female companions Ohkene and Otoy. Unfortunately just four months later Ah Sue hanged himself for no apparent reason other than he was reported to be somewhat depressed.	9	X01	I. Alien Bud
Elizabeth HOUSTON	Yalgoo	Dr Boyes was the doctor at the railway camp. On Monday the 28th September, he went up from Yalgoo to join a shooting party with the Government Inspector for Railways, Mr Harrold. They were travelling in a buggy driven by Mr Brown when the king pin broke and they were all thrown from the buggy, a bag of sugar falling on the doctor's back. On Wednesday morning, Dr Boyes could not be found in camp. Mr Harrold rode around the lakes but could not find him. The next day they were joined by Jack Morrissey, a native and 3 other men. About 3pm, Mr Cohen found the body of Dr Boyes under a bush, within sight of water. Dr Lawson examined the body at Yalgoo at 9.30am on the 2nd October and concluded that Dr Boyes had died of exposure while unwell.	10	10RC	Meth
